

Wipe-Off Contact Paper

This month's tip is from Penny Reed, Director of the Wisconsin Assistive Technology Initiative. Thanks Penny!

Contact paper is now available in a wipe-off surface version. Using this product, you can make your own wipe off boards out of almost anything! For example, cut a piece of cardboard to a size that would be convenient to carry or place on a corner of a student's desk. Cover it with the contact paper and viola! - you now have a portable wipe-off board. This would be great for students who can read and need visual reminders of schedules, activities within a routine and/or "to do" lists.
